

We have had the pleasure of meeting occasionally with Democrats from different townships in the county—some of those who have fought for the success of our principles for many years. We are glad to meet such. As yet we are comparative strangers here, and we desire to become acquainted. We hope therefore, that our brother Democrats and patrons, will give us a call, whenever they come to Ravenna.

Our friend MILLS, one of the editors of the Trumbull Democrat, gave us a call on last Monday. He speaks cheerfully of his prospects, for pecuniary and political success, in old Trumbull. The Democrats have made their county nominations, and, every thing bids fair for a complete victory over the Fusion forces in October.

The drouth is still upon us. Our town and county are affected with a disease that nothing but "water cure" treatment will be able to remove. The severity of the drouth should lead every one to be cautious with fire. We had hardly got out of the village without observing the effect of fires which have originated from sparks from the locomotive on the Railroad, or from want of due caution on the farms.

The Rev. John C. Hurt of the Congregational Church, preached a sermon on the subject of temperance at the Town Hall last Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Hall was well filled with an interested and attentive audience.

BARN BURN.—A barn near Cuyahoga Falls, Summit county, occupied by E. C. and George Sackett was burned last week with all its contents. It was large and well filled with wheat and oats. Not less than 1300 bushels of wheat, and 300 of oats were consumed. Insured at about $1600. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. We did not learn the name of the man charged with the crime. He has been arrested, however, and bound over to the Court of Common Pleas for Summit county.

Godley's Lady's Book, for September, is on our table as full of life and beauty as ever. It contains one hundred pages of choice reading matter and thirty-seven engravings. Its contributions are always from the ablest pens in the country. We recommend it to our lady readers as a magazine in which they may expect to find something to refine, enlighten and amuse.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—The teachers of Portage county will bear in mind that the Institute will commence its session on the second Monday of October next, and that its success depends wholly upon the individual efforts of the Teachers of the county. It is therefore, hoped that all teachers will make it a point to attend, themselves, and secure the attendance and co-operation of all others who may feel interested in the cause of education. E. C. W.

Samuel Beardsley who was, at the last session of the Probate Court, convicted of selling liquor contrary to law and sentenced to 20 days imprisonment in the jail therefor, has been, owing to extreme ill health, released from his confinement by the proper authorities.

The new organ for the Congregational Church of this place, has at length arrived. It is a fine instrument, and does credit to the church as well as all those through whose enterprise and liberality it was obtained.

DAGUERRETYPE LIKENESSES.—We would call the attention of the public to the advertisement of Wm. B. Matthews, Daguerrean Artist, which will be found in another column. Those who desire to secure the "shadow" of the substance faded, would do well to give him a call.

Condition of Fugitive Slaves in Canada.

The Albany Argus of Monday last, under the head of "Starving Fugitive Slaves in Canada," publishes the following: "We have received a circular calling attention to the condition of the fugitive slaves in Canada. It comes from a gentleman, we presume, and is signed J. J. Rice, Amherstburgh. It states that they are in great want and destitution, and in need of bedding, flannels and clothing generally suited to the climate, food, medicines, and assistance in every shape. Rice states that he has lived in Canada thirteen years "on incidental donations, and sometimes on scant fare." He denies that the Government does anything for the fugitives, and appeals to American abolitionists for early aid on behalf of his suffering fellow-men, reminding them that "to furnish bedding, &c., to a destitute family just from slavery, is what slaveholders, who work the colonization enterprise, do in Liberia."

Rice, we fear, appeals to deaf ears and close-shut purses. Negrophilic prefers mass conventions, political action, and double tracks for underground railroad, to caring for the passengers after they have reached their uncomfortable destination. It prefers election tickets to checks payable to fugitives in Canada. It delights rather in long speeches than in large collections. It thinks to be "hard for its much speaking." So that the poor negroes along the borders may perish with cold and starvation in the Canadian winter, if opponents of the "Nebraska inquiry" be only returned to Congress in the fall election. Great is humbug!

INFAMOUS TREATMENT OF EMIGRANTS.—It is said to have long been the practice of ship captains, arriving at the port of New York with German emigrants, to enter into an arrangement with some one or more of the swarms of runners that infest the docks on every new arrival, whereby the poor friendless strangers are fleeced out of considerable sums of money by the runners and their unscrupulous accomplices. Some of the captains, by this arrangement, it is said make $500 or more out of a single cargo of Germans, and this is the inducement for the arrangement. An instance of the kind was brought before the authorities on Monday, because one of them attempted to go ashore, he was beaten unmercifully by the mate, for whose arrest a warrant has been issued.

How astonishing, that the son of Ex-President Fillmore should get sick, yet the papers say, his son is sick. A great many other men's sons might be sick and yet papers would notice them to see YEMTON.

Government Outlays.

GENTLEMEN:—It is a favorable moment to say a word or two about government outlays. It is refreshing to see once in a great while some return to elemental principles, and to the great object, design, and purposes of republicanism. To reverse the old ideas of men, that governments must do every thing for the people, and build up a mighty name, that governments must build cities, dig canals, and construct public works and edifices for every locality at first favored by nature, has been the aim of American Democracy. Yet very little progress has been made. The Mayville veto was a great step towards that end. Governments will never be got out of the hands of the few so long as the people look to them for so much. The people on the United States, or the governing part of them, which are generally in our cities, have been looking to the River and Harbor bill for considerable additions to their public buildings, and for gratuitous relief to their empty pockets. The tricks of credit, and all other scholasticisms are about exhausted; and the surplus in the national Treasury has been played for with an astonishing recklessness, during the last winter. The President's veto is not only democratic, but timely. In such times as these the public money, and public land should be well guarded. The people are not now in a period of "second order" thinking. The prevailing idea just now is, that the Treasury is a great reservoir, and the government, the pump; drawing every where upon the income of the people, for distribution in certain localities, already sufficiently favored. It is fully impressed with this idea, that the Plain Dealer seems to complain of the late veto, and seems to call for another Chicago Convention. The size of the stream into Cleveland is not large enough in the opinion of the Cleveland Plain Dealer—and here ends its democracy. The price per foot of the land on which its office, or the Post Office, stands, would not be likely to rise above $1000 for another decade, unless "uncle Sam" comes to the aid of the city—State lifts flag in. This is Plain Dealer Democracy. What will Leonard Case ask the government "for the lot on which to place a Custom House and Post Office?" And how come it by this value? Thirty years of government appropriation in and about the mouth of the Cuyahoga river, have raised it from $30 per acre, to as much per inch, and now government is called upon to pay Mr. Case for what is really already its own. Had Mr. Case been taxed directly to build the Light House, and other public works at Cleveland, the case would have been quite different. Mr. Case, it is true, would not have been worth as much as he is now. Yet he could well have afforded to pay the tax, and would have paid it. Our harbors generally would have been in a better condition, if federal patronage had never been looked to, and they would have been fewer landed aristocrats in our cities and country. By government appropriations one mile square of land at the mouth of the Cuyahoga, has been made worth as much as the whole of Portage county, and a few families worth as much as all its inhabitants put together. And this is the result, first, of indirect taxation to support the government, and next, of giving that money, so unjustly and unequally raised to localities which would get rich fast enough without it. The arguments in favor of this mode of collection, and distribution, are as old as the Tariff system, and are as unsound as the system is unequal, sectional, aggrandizing, corrupt, and undemocratic. The history of Stockley's Pier, at Cleveland, alone, would disprove every one of them. The people of our Commercial cities make contributions, and live enough upon commerce, and the trade of the country, to pay them for all their sacrifices and outlays, even though they should build their own light-houses, piers and hospitals. Should government and the country be a little less liberal towards cities, and compel them to build their own improvements and attractions, they would not have so much to expend in dissipation and luxury—and otherwise deserve better of mankind.

Yours in haste, VIRGINIAN.

The Struggle.
Considerable head has been made about a case said to have arrived at the Canton depot which was opened and found to contain pistols and bowie-knives, and which was claimed and removed by a Catholic Priest. The agitators of this subject seem to think that a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth. The latest edition says that a small cannon was shipped to Canton in the same mysterious manner. The editor of the Portage Co. Democrat says he has the name of the correspondent who vouches for the verity of the case and cannon business; very likely—but then nobody in Canton would believe that correspondent, however, he is. One statement says that KERZINGER, the ticket agent is a Catholic! We have been personally acquainted with Mr. Kerzinger since 1828, and have the honor of being husband to a niece of his, and we never suspected him of Catholicism until we saw it in the papers. But then our skill is tolerably thick and we are consequently rather dull of comprehension.

We have been informed, but then it was rather a recent specimen of mankind who told us—that the cannon belonged to Messrs. BALL, AULMAN & Co. of this place, and had been clandestinely taken to Louisville to celebrate on the 4th ult., and as clandestinely returned—but this is mere gossip, of course, and will go for what it is worth. All jesting aside; if Catholic priests wished to obtain arms secretly, they would not adopt the plan of having boxes or barrels sent to their priests directed with an initial—neither would the priests claim or remove them—there are friends enough or church to obtain them without attracting any attention whatever; and we are honestly of the opinion, that interested political demagogues are circulating stories to prejudice American citizens against foreigners, who, in many instances, are more patriotic than we, and their birthright of opinion for a petty office.

This system of persecution will recoil severely on the heads of its introducers and perpetrators.—Democratic (Canton) Transcript.

In Galena, Ill., a boy named George Jackson, aged twelve years, shot his playmate, Elias Horn, aged sixteen, in the mouth with his gun, and killed him. It is supposed he killed him for a dollar and twelve cents, which Horn had in his pocket.

Necessary Precaution.—On a late occasion of an ancient gentleman, requested to be allowed to accompany him into the "arid regions." "Are you good tempered?" asked the monarch. "I believe so," said the other; "but why do you ask the question?" "For fear we may fall out on the way."

English Oppression.
English papers, says the Detroit Free Press, are very fond of prating about the horrors of American slavery, and denouncing our whole people as wicked oppressors, because of the existence of that institution in our midst. If they would somewhat correct the extent of their vision, and cast their eyes over their own country, they would easily discover instances of oppression sanctioned by the laws under which they live, far more terrible than any which can be found among the cotton fields and rice sugar plantations of the southern States. Only within a month past, a case of legal tyranny has come to light in England, which is absolutely appalling. It appears that a man by the name of WILLIAM MILLER has been imprisoned in Winchester jail for thirty-nine years for debt—spending the last three years and eight months in solitary confinement. Some humane persons, recently hearing of his case, had him transferred to the Queen's Prison, at London, where he now enjoys what is to him comparative liberty. The New York Times, in noticing the fact, makes the following very appropriate comments:

"This poor fellow entered his prison when another sovereign was on the English throne. The black walls closed on him when the railway and electric telegraph and the Daguerreotype were unknown in England.—What a strange revulsion of feeling he must have experienced when he stepped from his cell into the London street for more than half his life he had been dead to the world, seeing no face but his jailor's, hearing no voice but that of the Superintendent on his diurnal rounds. Spiders and rats were perhaps his only company, and through his grated window he could see just enough of the blue sky to tell him that there was a world outside. * * * If this is not slavery, and slavery of the worst kind, we should like to know what is. What negro on a cotton or sugar plantation in the Southern States would change with William Miller. O, not the sunny freedom of the cornfields, and the pleasant dances in the log cabin and the saccharine meals of sugar-cane, are, with all their drawbacks, preferable to that awful penance of thirty-nine years, passed in a dark, unwholesome cell and on prison fare."

The British people live in a glass house, and should not throw stones.

A Crystal Palace is to be built at Naples. The king favors the project and plan; Villa Reale, close to the sea is to be the site.
